Dubai authority warns foreigners against working while on visit

Our Dubai Correspondent

DUBAI Public Prosecution has warned people that working without obtaining the necessary work permits will face strict action that can include three months jail as well as a fine of up to Dhs 10,000 (₹ 2 lakh).

The advisory posted by the prosecution read: "Every foreigner who entered the country under a visit visa and wished to work in the country must obtain a permission from the competent authority, otherwise he shall be penalised in accordance with imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months and a fine not exceeding Dhs 10,000, or one of these two penalties, and the court shall order the deportation of the violator from the state."

Depending on whether the expatriate is working with a company in the private sector, in a free zone or in the public sector, his work permit will be issued by the relevant authority. All work permits for the private sector are issued by the Ministry of Human Resources and Emiratisation (MOHRE), while each free zone has an authority which regulates the labour contracts and relationships between employers and employees within their jurisdiction.

In the public sector, at the federal level, Federal Authority for Government Human Resources (FAHR) is in charge of managing human resources for ministries and federal authorities which are subject to the Federal Decree, while government departments within each emirate are governed by local government authorities.

Saudi launches e-visa service for cruise tourists

Our Saudi Correspondent

THE Saudi Ministry of Foreign Affairs has launched an e-visa service for cruise tourists.

The e-visa would be issued to people arriving in Saudi Arabia via cruises, and that applications could be filed through the ministry's electronic platform.

Proof of a cruise ticket purchase is required to apply for the visa. Applications will then be processed before a visa is issued through the ministry's digital embassy platform.

Tourism plays a crucial role in the Kingdom's Vision 2030 plan for economic diversification.

Saudi authorities plan to invest up to $200 billion and welcome 100 million visitors by 2030. Vision 2030 aims to increase tourism sector's contribution to gross domestic product to 10 per cent.

Part of the Kingdom's strategy involves job creation and the construction of additional tourism facilities, including hotels.

Last month, the Madinah-based University of Prince Mugrin signed a deal with Cruise Saudi, an affiliate of the Public Investment Fund, to train national cadres in the tourism field.

Under the deal, young Saudis will be offered professional programmes in various tourism specialisations. It aims to develop the capabilities of the local workforce in the cruise industry, tourism and hospitality sectors. Cruise Saudi aims to create 50,000 direct and indirect jobs by 2035.

Similarly, Saudia, the Kingdom's national airline, signed an agreement last November with MSC Cruises and Cruise Saudi to provide 20,000 seats on its flights from Europe and North America to Jeddah.

Military personnel and civil servants are working round the clock at Jeddah's Red Sea Operations Center to provide tourist yachts with entry licenses. The multi-agency center assists foreign yacht owners and local agents in both Arabic and English, enabling them to enter Saudi waters.

It comes as part of Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman's plan to reinforce tourism through marine activities, Commander Hasan Al-Asmari, the manager of the center, told Arab News.

UAE airlines speed up hiring

Our UAE Correspondent

ALL UAE airlines have started hiring staff as regular services are being restored in almost all sectors with faster recovery in economic activities after the Covid-19 pandemic struck the aviation industry from 2020 onwards.

UAE airlines are back to hiring, with Air Arabia and Wizz Air Abu Dhabi joining Emirates and Etihad Airways in wanting more personnel as more services return to the skies, said a Gulf News report quoting sources.

For Air Arabia, the recruitments come as it prepares to launch a national airline in Armenia – Fly Arna – by late May.

Not just pilots and cabin crew, the new positions being hired include those for back-office positions. Analysts said the UAE airlines are making 'replacement hires' to keep their organisations running smoothly and that it would take a while for new jobs to be created. "Organisations in most parts of the world lost some number of staff and they need to hire for those positions," said Mark Martin, CEO of Martin Consulting, an aviation industry focussed firm.

Emirates and Etihad have already gone through the process in recent months, with the Dubai airline taking in pilots and cabin crew as well as support staff.

Abu Dhabi's Etihad last October went on a major cabin crew recruitment drive as its network started getting busy.

Sharjah's low-cost carrier Air Arabia has posted several job roles on the social media platform Linkedin. The only Middle East airline to report a profit in 2020 is launching in Armenia through a joint venture.

Air Arabia CEO Adel Al Ali had said that more than 100 employees would be needed with the deployment of each new airplane.

"The more airplanes you bring, the more places you will fly to and more people will need to recruit – it's a moving number that will continue to grow very fast."

The airline has posted vacancies for a customer relations manager, a codeshare and alliance support executive, a paralegal, rotables controller, manager – propulsion and a key account executive.

Wizz Air Abu Dhabi, UAE's newest national airline – also flying in the budget space – is slowly but steadily expanding its routes and regional operations. With that comes the need to take in fresh hires to fuel this growth. The latest positions being advertised are for a post holder crew training manager, cabin crew training manager and an office assistant.

European aircraft maker Airbus is also into workforce expansion as the industry gears up for a full return to recovery from the pandemic and its multiple variants.

Last week, the European plane-maker announced its plan to recruit around 6,000 new employees across the entire group as the company looks to decarbonise wherever possible.

Kuwait deports 18,221 expats in 2021

Our Kuwait Correspondent

AS many as 18,221 expatriates have been deported from Kuwait during 2021, an average of 50 expatriates per day and 1,518 expatriates per month, local media reported.

According to the Ministry of Interior, the deported expatriates included 11,177 men and 7,044 women.

One of the main reasons for their deportation was expired residency permits.

Meanwhile, others were deported for being involved in misdemeanours and felonies. Many expatriates were also deported for trying to commit suicide and for violating the curfew that was put in place early last year.

Kuwait's Ministry of Interior has also issued a decision in the middle of last year to deport residents who participate in demonstrations. Deportation will also apply to residents whose behaviour harms the public interest, security and morals of the country, said a report.

Emirates is world's safest airline

Our Dubai Correspondent

DUBAI-based Emirates airline has been named the world's safest airline for the second successive year, according to the Hamburg-based Jet Airliner Crash Data Evaluation Centre (JACDEC).

With a risk index of 95.05 per cent, Emirates beat out its nearest rivals KLM (93.31 per cent), JetBlue (91.61 per cent), Delta (91.55 per cent) and easyJet (91.28 per cent) among the 25 airlines surveyed. The survey was carried out for aviation magazine Aero International.

For the first time, JACDEC also published regional rankings, which compare the world's largest airlines within one of four regions.

On a regional level, Emirates slipped behind Abu Dhabi-based Etihad Airways, which due to its size did not make it onto the global list.

In Europe, KLM (93.31 per cent) took first place, ahead of Finnair (93.16 per cent), Air Europa (93.12 per cent), Transavia (92.83 per cent), easyJet (91.28 per cent) and Norwegian (90.95 per cent).

The creation of regional categories was "primarily due to the changed size ratios, which shifted in favour of many airlines with strong domestic markets such as China or the US," explained Jan-Arwed Richter, Founder of JACDEC.

Due to pandemic-related slumps in the aviation industry throughout 2021, as well as only a timid resurgence of passenger numbers, past airline accidents had a greater impact on results this time.

Some well-known airlines such as Austrian, Eurowings and Condor didn't even make it into the European Top 25 due to insufficient passenger-kilometre performance in 2021.

Even before the emergence of the Omicron variant and the renewed restrictions that followed in its wake, aviation industry losses due to the pandemic have already totalled some $200 billion, according to Willie Walsh, Director-General of the airline association IATA.

Mr Walsh predicted a total loss of $52 billion for 2021 and of $12 billion in 2022, before the aviation industry finally returns to making profits in 2023.

Industry urged to aim for at least 75 unicorns

In order to take the innovation culture to every nook and corner of the country, the Central government has taken several steps to boost startup ecosystem, which include removing problems of Angel Tax; simplification of tax procedure and allowing self-certification and self-regulation

AAT News Service

STARTUP India started a revolution six years ago and today 'startup' has become a common household term. Indian startups are fast becoming the champions of India Inc's growth story. The Indian industry should aim for raising 75 unicorns, said Piyush Goyal, Union Minister for Commerce and Industry.

Releasing the Nasscom Tech Startup Report 2022, Mr Goyal said, "India has now become the hallmark of a trailblazer and is leaving its mark on global startup landscape. Investments received by startups overshadowed pre-pandemic highs. The year 2021 will be remembered as the year of startups, as they delivered on their promise – fearlessly chasing opportunities across verticals – Edtech, HealthTech and AgriTech amongst other sectors.

"Services export for April-December, 2021 reached over $178 billion despite the Covid-19 pandemic when the travel, hospitality & tourism sectors were significantly down. The ITeS (Information Technology-enabled Services) industry, including the business process outsourcing (BPO) sector recorded significantly in the services exports," he said.

To take the innovation culture to every nook and corner of the country, the Central government has taken several steps to boost startup ecosystem, which include removing problems of 'Angel Tax'; simplification of tax procedure and allowing self-certification and self-regulation besides reducing burden of over 26,500 compliances and decriminalisation of 770 compliances.

"The New India is today being led by new troika of Innovation, Technology & Entrepreneurship (ITE), which in a way has grown further from the original ICE (Information, Communication & Entertainment). When ICE was introduced many years ago, the country was excited about the new information age. Today, that same vibrancy and excitement is witnessed in the way our startups are growing in the ITE areas," said the minister.

India's unique digital infrastructure – Aadhaar, DigiLocker, FASTag, CoWIN, UPI (unified payments interface) etc, have enabled access and affordability. The CoWIN portal showed the world that India could run world's largest vaccination programme efficiently and effectively, with complete mapping and monitoring done digitally. The UPI has helped new-age technologies in reaching the common man at affordable prices.

The next UPI moment will be the ONDC (open network for digital commerce). The first-of-its-kind globally, ONDC to enable interoperability between eCommerce companies, providing equal opportunity to small and large players, will help control digital monopolies and make industry more inclusive for buyers and sellers alike, empowering MSMEs to unlock innovation and value.

A five-point plan as the way forward for the Nasscom was unveiled:

1. Emphasise on basic and core needs of people – providing better access to financial services, education and healthcare; solutions to problems of farmers etc.

2. Focus on high growth and job creating sectors – advertising & marketing, professional services, fitness & wellness (yoga becoming popular globally), gaming, sports, audio-visual services.

3. More and more startups should leverage deep technology to build solutions for local and global markets – Artificial Intelligence, Internet of Things, Big Data, Data Analytics, Blockchain, Virtual Reality, 3D Printing, Drones etc.

4. The country has a lot of potential in startups from Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities. If we give them more support and proper mentoring, they could also play a much greater in the years to come.

5. India will assume G20 presidency in 2023. The industry should suggest ideas on themes resonating with our vision to solve global issues.

"This momentum of the Indian startup ecosystem will continue in the current year and the years to come. While 2021 was a year in which we defied all odds, 2022 will be the breakthrough year which will unlock the country's exponential value. 'India at 100' will be renowned as a startup nation," said Mr Goyal.

India is the largest exporter of cucumber in the world

AAT News Service

INDIA has emerged as the largest exporter of gherkins in the world. In 2020-21, India shipped 2.23 lakh MTs of cucumber and gherkins (pickling cucumber, which is globally referred as gherkins or cornichons) worth $223 million. The Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority (APEDA) has been instrumental in the growth of the sector. It undertook a series of initiatives in infrastructure development, product promotion in the global market and adherence to food safety management system in processing units.

Gherkin cultivation, processing and exports started in India during the early 90s with a modest beginning in Karnataka and later extended to Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh and Telangana. Nearly 15 per cent production of the world's gherkin requirement is grown in India.

Gherkins is currently exported to more than 20 countries, with major destinations being North America, European countries and oceanic countries such as US, France, Germany, Australia, Spain, South Korea, Canada, Japan, Belgium, Russia, China, Sri Lanka and Israel.

Apart from its export potential, gherkin industry plays a key role in the creation of rural employment. In India, cultivation of gherkins is carried out under contract farming by around 90,000 small and marginal farmers with an annual production area of 65,000 acres.

Processed gherkins are exported in bulk as industrial raw material and in jars as ready to eat. The bulk production is still occupying a high percentage of the gherkin market. In India there are about 51 major companies producing and exporting gherkins in drums and ready-to-eat consumer packs.

On an average, a gherkin farmer produces four metric tonne per acre per crop and earns about ₹ 80,000 with a net income of ₹ 40,000. Gherkin has a 90-day crop and the farmers take two crops annually. Processing plants of international standards have been established here to cater to the requirement of foreign buyers.

All the gherkin manufacturing and exporting companies are either ISO, BRC, IFS, FSSC 22000 certified and HACCP certified or possess all the certifications. Many of the companies have adopted social audits. This ensures all statutory benefits are given to the employees.The APEDA is also focussing on value addition of gherkins to increase the export value of the product.

Strong research and devpt vital for better crude output

AAT News Service

THERE is a need for increasing indigenous production of crude oil through strong research and development (R&D) efforts to ensure energy security of the country, said Vice-President, Venkaiah Naidu, at the first convocation ceremony of the Indian Institute of Petroleum and Energy (IIPE), in Visakhapatnam.

Calling for aatmanirbharta in the country's energy mix, Mr Naidu suggested focussing more on increasing domestic exploration of petroleum, harnessing full potential of renewable sources and aiming for excellence and innovation in energy industry. India is the world's third-largest consumer of crude oil and yet import-dependent for more than 80 per cent of its needs.

There is need for increasing production not only to save foreign exchange, but also to ensure energy security. Various policy reforms of the government such as the Hydrocarbon Exploration Licensing Policy (HELP) are aimed at increasing exploration in new sedimentary basins.

Noting the impact of population and industrialisation on increased energy demand, Mr Naidu said the country's primary energy demand is expected to grow at an average rate of more than three per cent till 2045, as compared to less than one per cent growth for the rest of the world. In this regard, IIPE and other energy institutes should bridge supply gap of skilled manpower for petroleum sector and build stronger industry-institute linkages with prominent market players.

PhD students should undertake research on problems faced by the industry and, thus bring a multi-disciplinary approach into academic research, which is the aim of National Education Policy, 2020. India is blessed with ample renewable sources such as solar, wind and tidal power. As part of the efforts to reduce the use of fossil fuels, the potential of these sources of energy should be tapped fully. To achieve this, the institutes specialising in energy should also seek to diversify their portfolio and take up projects which have a component of renewable energy research, he said.

"Even a tiny improvement in the efficiency of harnessing green sources will deliver great benefits of scale to our economy and ecology. IIPE will show the way forward by becoming an exemplar in the domain of energy research," added Mr Naidu.

Playing with toys will help develop creativity in kids

AAT News Service

LEARNING with toys will develop the creativity and sensitivity in students and give wings to their imagination. Toys teach children from being possessive to sharing, co-operative to empathy. Exploring toys to make one on their own inculcates among them imagination and creativity. It is the need of hour that parents teach their children through toys, as they will make things comprehensible for kids, said Subhas Sarkar, Union Minister of State for Education.

He was addressing the international webinar on 'Toys and games to play, make and learn', organised by the National Council of Educational Research and Training (NCERT) under the aegis of the Ministry of Education. The objective of the webinar was to promote toy-based pedagogy in school education for joyful learning.

"We have a rich heritage of traditional toys which has originated in the sub-continent several thousand years ago in the Indus Valley civilisation. Indian toys not only entertain, but also teach us scientific theories. For example, 'lattu' teaches us gravity and balance, 'gullel' teaches us potential and kinetic energy," said the minister.

International webinars on the subject are important steps towards reinventing a timeless tradition of toys and games. They provide a roadmap for school education which has been envisaged by the National Education Policy, 2020 based on India's rich heritage and knowledge systems and prepare kids for the challenges of the 21st Century.

What to expect from Budget 2022?

Given the uncertainty ahead, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman has a lot on her plate this time round

AAT News Service

WHEN the Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman prepares the Union Budget 2022-23, she is not in an envious situation. We are talking about the state of the economy ahead of the Budget. Let's run through the latest numbers. As per National Statistical Office's first advance estimates, India's real GDP growth in 2021-22 is estimated at 9.2 per cent, which is 30 basis points lower than the Reserve Bank of India and the International Monetary Fund's projection at 9.5 per cent. Even this rate is unlikely to be reached given the third wave of Covid-19 that is sweeping the country right now.

Now, according to the advance estimates, at the end of 2021-22, the magnitude of GDP in real terms is estimated at ₹ 147.5 lakh crore, that is only marginally higher than ₹ 145.7 lakh crore in 2019-20. Thus, due to the three waves of covid that India has experienced, nearly two years of real growth in economic activities have been wiped out. Given the expected impact of covid in the new financial year, there is very little to hope that the country will achieve the projected growth in the next financial year.

But right proposals can change the course better. If that has to happen, a lot will depend on the upcoming Budget as it can be pivotal in defining the way forward for the Indian economy.

According to some market observers, the Central government's focus will be on economic revival by increasing spending, and need-based capital expenditure would be the key agenda. Many say that the Budget will maintain the dual approaches of fiscal discipline and calibrated spending to re-energise growth. But given the five state elections due for March-April, 2022, several populist policies aimed at individual states are possible.

Some say that the government cannot afford populism at this point. Instead they expect policy reforms and the broad focus of the Budget according to them is likely to be on job creation which could mean, more impetus will be on infrastructure. The second focus can be on credit growth, which is still sluggish compared to pre-pandemic years.

There are many who expect the Finance Minister to cut the tenure of the current five-year tax-saving fixed deposit (FD) schemes. Readers would know that one can claim an income-tax deduction by investing money in a five-year FD scheme under Section 80C of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. Section 80C is a wide bracket with a ceiling of ₹ 1.50 lakh. Banks have made a representation to the Ministry of Finance for lowering FD tenure to three years for availing tax benefits, in line with mutual fund products like equity-linked savings scheme (ELSS).

Other important tax measures that the government could consider including in Budget 2022 are higher standard deduction for individuals, enhancing the limit on interest on home loan for individuals, and recognising the business requirement of work-from-home for unburdening the individuals.

The Finance Minister in her Budget last year had announced the pillars on which her proposals would rest. These were creation of physical and financial capital, speedy infrastructure development, attention to health and wellbeing, reinvigorating innovation and R&D, improving on human capital, and minimum government and maximum governance. The situation then was very uncertain with the second wave of covid looming large. Due to the pandemic, much remained to be accomplished. This is time the minister revisited those objectives and take serious steps towards building those pillars.

The basic philosophy of giving push to infra and health spending should be continued, given that economic growth is expected to be still very robust. Special attention, however, should be made on job creation, on innovation and R&D along with skilling, particularly in the context of National Education Policy, 2021, and of course a better disinvestment programme as the current year target is likely to fall woefully short.

Hospitality and travel industry has suffered considerable losses during the pandemic years. They are not considered 'industrial undertakings' as per the tax statute. Making changes in the direct tax to include them can help the sector's consolidation through amalgamation and mergers, and thereby get the necessary capital to spur growth, generate employment, and also pave the way for possible digitisation. This will also make the sector attractive for foreign investment.

Emphasis has to be also given to health initiatives. Higher spending on health and proactively vaccinating people have brought everyone back on their feet. It is important now that the government (this includes state governments too) brings about a fundamental reset to avoid blundering into a health crisis again.

Innovation and R&D is a pillar for Budget action. At present, direct tax allows 100 per cent expend on R&D. There is a request to enhance that to 200 per cent. While elasticity between incentive and investment is low, importance for such increase is in terms of country competition that puts India at a disadvantage.

Though higher Goods and Services Tax (GST) collections in the last three months are a sign of higher consumption, experts say it could be due to pent up demand. It is likely that the government will offer some concessions to boost public consumption, which could play a key role in short- and medium-term economic recovery. While so far the government's focus has been on incentivising companies, we feel that the government must give tax sops to individual taxpayers and incentivise them to spend. This can push demand and fire up the economy.

Despite the improvement in economic growth, employment in India has not gone back to pre-pandemic levels yet. In fact, unemployment levels are again on the rise, according to the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy. This is an area the government must take serious steps. The job growth is mostly seen in the gig economy which anyway is not a high-paying segment. So, there is enough to be done in this area.

MSMEs in the country are capable of forming complete supply chain

The Ministry of Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) has been working closely with other ministries and departments to facilitate the ease of doing business for MSMEs

AAT News Service

THERE is tremendous potential for Indian engineering MSMEs to be integrated into the global value chain due to their manufacturing cost advantage, said B B Swain, Secretary, Ministry of MSME.

Addressing the MSME Conclave organised by Engineering Export Promotion Council (EEPC) India, Mr Swain said for the MSMEs to achieve high growth two most significant interventions required are related to credit assistance and technology upgradation. The ministry has been working closely with other ministries and departments to facilitate the ease of doing business for MSMEs.

The ministry is focussing on easing access to registering as MSMEs, easing their access to credit and providing them the much-needed protection as far as global tenders are concerned.

MSMEs engaged in manufacturing of engineering products are about 29 per cent of the 67 lakh MSMEs which have registered since July 1, 2020 on the Udyam registration portal. MSME units are together capable of constituting a complete supply chain and being globally competitive because of their diverse products ranging from intermediate to final products, said Mr Swain.

The MSMEs need to catch up a lot on the technological front as this is crucial to increase India's share in the global value chain. 'Make in India' initiative has brought ample scope for Indian MSMEs to work with large-scale global manufacturing firms and get access to their upgraded technology and efficient marketing techniques.

Following the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic, large corporations in the developed world have been looking at India as an alternative destination for manufacturing, said Mahesh Desai, Chairman, EEPC India.

MSMEs play a crucial role by contributing around 30 per cent to India's GDP and the sector has 50 per cent share in the country's exports. The significance of MSME sector in India has long been recognised and its potential has also been identified. In the National Manufacturing Policy, manufacturing output has been targetted to increase to 25 per cent of GDP, said Mr Desai.

EEPC India, with nearly 60 per cent of its members coming from the MSME sector, has been playing an instrumental role in developing engineering MSMEs of India. It has been working closely with the government to promote MSMEs producing engineering products in line with the Department of Commerce and Industry for technological upgradation, and setting up of two technology centres in Bengaluru and Kolkata to address the problem of technological backwardness of engineering MSMEs.

"We promise our best endeavour towards higher integration of this sector in the global value chain through continuation of our strategic activities for the upgradation of engineering MSMEs and we believe that such summits fully dedicated for MSMEs will help us to achieve our goal," said Mr Desai.

A knowledge paper titled 'Integrating Indian MSMEs to Global Value Chain' was released on the occasion. The paper suggested that India's trade regime should promote value addition in the country. Hence, the general tariff structure should be low on raw and primary goods, slightly higher on intermediaries and the highest on final products.

The paper further recommended that both direct and indirect tax structure should be neutral and not discriminate between the nature of firms. Banks and financial institutions should be more willing to discern genuine exporters and demand less of collateral. Finally, stability in policy measures with less intervention and emphasis on neutrality on behalf of the government will be necessary.

Pvt cos urged to invest in labour-oriented sectors

AAT News Service

THE Indian industry should inculcate greater appetite for risk taking. The Central government looks forward for investments from private sector to create jobs in labour-oriented sectors like plastics, footwear, textiles, and leather, said Piyush Goyal, Union Minister for Commerce & Industry and Textiles.

Addressing the special e-session of Merchants' Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI), Mr Goyal said "industry associations can partner with all stakeholders, including Central/ state governments, missions, EPCs (engineering, procurement, and construction) contracts, and help attract businesses to India and strengthen domestic industry. Let us all come together with one resolve, ie to make India a global leader by taking up bigger and bolder challenges".

"With a cost advantage as well as the trust advantage that Indian industry enjoys, this is the time for India to emerge out of the shadows and truly become a global nation. The industry must clearly focus on the principles of quality, productivity and become global scale operators so that we can benefit from the economies of scale.

"We've had a very successful experience on the PLI (production linked incentive) front, particularly in mobile phone manufacturing. Now we are hoping to replicate it in other sectors like semiconductors, container manufacturing etc. Fourteen sectors now have PLI schemes," said Mr Goyal.

Industry associations should proactively participate by giving ideas/ suggestions on issues related to free trade agreement, non-tariff barriers and market access, themes for India's G20 presidency in 2023, resonating with the vision to make Aatmanirbhar Bharat. "The associations should highlight where we can reduce compliance burden and enhance Ease of Doing Business. They should identify processes that the government can digitise and suggest areas where legal framework can be simplified, and implement self-regulation wherever possible. They should also point out wherever it is possible to start using the National Single Window System and give feedback on how we can provide more facilities.

"The industry associations should become self-reliant in consolidating value chains and supply chains, eg application programming interface and integrate MSMEs in forward and backward linkages.

"Despite the lockdown, the country met all its international service commitments, becoming the world's trusted partner. Today, we have an opportunity of a lifetime to propel our industry to new heights. India's technology, talent and temperament is bringing hope to the world. Powered by the triple engine of exports, investment and the startups, the foundation has been set for India to become a global powerhouse," said Mr Goyal.

"In our journey towards realising the dream of an Aatmanirbhar Bharat, the Central government has taken transformative steps to create a conducive environment for businesses such as: strengthening coal and mining sector; transparent auction mechanism for private sector. And also liberalising defence sector. The government has allowed 74 per cent FDI through automatic route and 100 per cent through the government approval route.

"The government also transformed the telecom sector: 100 per cent FDI allowed, penalties removed, interest rates rationalised. There are many other reforms: PLI, reducing compliance burden, National Infrastructure Pipeline, PM-Gati Shakti National Master Plan for Multimodal Connectivity etc, to name a few," said the minister.

"India no longer signs FTAs just to be a part of a group, we are looking at reciprocal access, good market conditions and equitable and fair play in trade in goods & services. We are looking at FTAs with like-minded nations with values of democracy, transparency and mutual growth, eg UAE, Australia, UK, EU, Israel, Canada, GCC.

"FTAs are a two-way traffic. It needs industry's co-operation in maintaining fruitful bilateral relations.The world is watching India, which is ready to take giant leaps towards transforming the nation and changing the lives of 135 crore people. The Mauritius Chamber of Commerce and Industry has emerged over the years as one of the most dynamic Chambers of Eastern India and is contributing to India's economy now for over 120 years," he said.

"As a skyscraper stands on a strong foundation, economic transformation of any nation stands on the shoulders of a robust industry. One part of holistic thinking is to move beyond traditional practices and create a resilient environment for our industries to grow. The Central government will release funds under the Technology Upgradation Fund Scheme after due diligence and verification of pending claims," added Mr Goyal.

Netaji will continue to live in hearts of Indians

Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose had a vision for financial and economic strength of India and had set up a planning commission even before India got independence

AAT News Service

NETAJI Subhas Chandra Bose lived, lives and will continue to live in the hearts of Indian people. Though Netaji was a devout Hindu, he had respect for all the religions and dreamt of an India where all religions co-exist peacefully, said Anita Bose Pfaff, daughter of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose.

Addressing a webinar from Germany on the occasion of 125th Birth Anniversary of Netaji, organised by the Press Information Bureau and Regional Outreach Bureau, Jaipur in connection with 'Parakram Diwas', Ms Pfaff said as part of Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav, the Central government has declared the birth anniversary day of Netaji to be celebrated as 'Parakram Diwas' every year on January 23.

Netaji was a champion of gender equality. His vision was to build a nation where men and women not only have the same rights, but can also deliver same duties. It is on the women themselves to emancipate, women should win and they can win. Netaji had a vision for financial and economic strength of India and had set up a planning commission even before India got independence.

Addressing the webinar, former Secretary-General and currently Trustee of Netaji Subhash Bose INA Trust Delhi, Renuka Malaker (grandniece of Netaji) said, Netaji had extreme love for his countrymen. Youth of India are the country's future. The youth should keep the nation uppermost in their minds and if that happens no one can stop India from progressing.

While elaborating on the life of Netaji at the webinar, senior journalist and writer Mahesh Chandra Sharma said as Netaji gave topmost priority to the nation, youth should also strive for a nation which is united, powerful and free from religious and cast-based discrimination. The dedication of Netaji towards the nation remain inspiration for the youth in India.

Participating in the webinar, Additional Director-General (Region), PIB, Pragya Paliwal Gaur said, in order to honour and remember Netaji's indomitable spirit and selfless service to the nation, the Central government has decided to celebrate his birthday on January 23 every year as 'Parakram Diwas' to inspire people of the country, especially the youth.

The webinar was attended by more than 200 participants, which included soldiers of Border Security Force; National Cadet Corps cadets; young volunteers of Nehru Yuva Kendra Sangathan and other officials from various part of the country.
