Middle East to see airline staff shortage in 2023

The Middle East hiring trends would depend on the pace of recovery from the pandemic. Qatar Airways which made one-third of their flight crew or 1,300 pilots redundant due to the pandemic is recalling B787 and A330 pilots and is recruiting Gulfstream captains. Emirates had brought back to service 169 out of its 263 aeroplanes and restarted accepting pilot applications

Our ME Correspondent

THE Middle East will need 54,000 pilots by 2040, according to Boeing. PilotsGlobal, a US-based digital platform for pilots to find employment at airlines around the world, expects the Middle East will face a new pilot shortage as early as 2023 due to the dearth of local candidates to operate the region's airlines.

The firm predicts that the number of pilots required in the region will stand at approximately 15,800 by 2023 and around 28,000 by 2031, eventually climbing to 54,000 estimated by Boeing in 2040.

Among regional carriers, Emirates, which employed almost 4,050 pilots by October 2021 and Qatar Airways, with almost 3,600 pilots, will need an additional 3,150 and 2,250 flight-deck crew, respectively, when the aircraft that comprise their order backlogs finally gets delivered.

Given that most airlines in the region required expatriate pilots to have accumulated more than 5,000 hours of flight time for vacant positions, PilotsGlobal believes it is well placed to fill cockpit seats when airlines begin to hire again.

Most of the pilots using the platform have EASA and FAA licenses, with the majority having over 10,000 hours of flight time on Boeing 777, 787, and Airbus 330, type ratings that are popular among flag carriers in the Middle East.

The Middle East hiring trends will depend on the pace of recovery from the pandemic. Qatar Airways which made one-third of their flight crew or 1,300 pilots redundant due to the pandemic is recalling Boeing 787 and Airbus 330 pilots and is recruiting Gulfstream captains.

Emirates had brought back to service 169 out of its 263 aeroplanes and restarted accepting pilot applications, returning hundreds of pilots a month.

Air Arabia will need to triple its number of pilots by the time it receives all its aircraft on order, while flydubai will have to quadruple its current crew.

Airlines such as Etihad, Flyadeal, Gulf Air and Kuwait Airways are nearly doubling in size compared to 2019, requiring twice their crew.

Emirates Airline is the largest pilot employer in the region, closely followed by Qatar Airways. The next two on the list - Saudia and Etihad - employ about 2,200 and 1,400 pilots, respectively.

Bahrain introduces Golden Residency Visa programme

Our Bahrain Correspondent

BHRAIN has launched a new Golden Residency Visa programme for residents and non-residents, as well as their families.

Golden Residency Visa holders can have their visas renewed indefinitely, provided they continue to meet the eligibility criteria, according to Bahrain News Agency.

The visa grants them the right to work in Bahrain, allows them multiple entry and exit from the Kingdom, and even allows residency rights for close family members.

The new visa was announced during the Cabinet session chaired by Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Crown Prince and Prime Minister of Bahrain, as part of the country's economic recovery plan.

To qualify for the Golden Residency Visa, existing residents must have resided in Bahrain continuously for at least five years and earned an average basic salary of no less than BHD 2,000 (₹ 3,97,255) per month throughout the five-year period. The long-term residence permit will be renewed indefinitely provided the candidate continues to meet the eligibility criteria.

Besides, residents and non-residents are eligible for the Golden Residency Visa if they meet the following criteria:

Own one or more properties in Bahrain, valued no less than BHD 2,00,000 (₹ 39.72 crore), or retirees with an income of at least BHD 4,000 (₹ 7,94,500) per month; are 'highly-talented' individuals who meet the relevant requirements; must reside in the Kingdom for 90 days a year, to ensure their visa continues to be valid.

Those who meet the eligibility criteria are allowed to submit their applications to be considered for the visa online with immediate effect.

"The introduction of the Golden Residency Visa is designed to attract investors, benefit our businesses, and contribute to the provision of quality opportunities for Bahrainis. This programme will also provide deserved reward to those existing residents who have contributed significantly to Bahrain's economy and society over many years," said Shaikh Hisham bin Abdulrahman bin Mohammed Al Khalifa, Undersecretary for Nationality, Passports and Residency Affairs at the Ministry of Interior.

Kuwait to resume tourist visa issuance from March

Our Kuwait Correspondent

KUWAIT is considering allowing family and tourist visit visas in March after a gap of more than a year-and-a-half, Al-Qabas daily reported quoting security sources.

They explained that the General Department for Residency Affairs of the Ministry of Interior is awaiting a report from the Ministry of Health on the stability of the health situation in terms of the Covid-19 pandemic in the country in order to make the appropriate decision, especially with the recent decrease in the number of new cases and the number of admissions to intensive care units and wards, and surpassing the peak of the omicron wave in the country.

Though Kuwait's Cabinet decided to resume the issuance of all types of visas for expatriates, family and tourist visits were suspended, as the Cabinets decision was applied only to work visas and commercial visit visas.

The resumption of family and tourist visits for children and spouses will contribute to revising the economic movement at various levels, in addition to the fact that it comes from a humanitarian standpoint, taking into account the circumstances of the reunion of some families residing in the country, said a statement.

Dozens of expatriates visit the residency departments in the six governorates on a daily basis to inquire about the date of resumption of family and tourist visits in order to bring their families, especially with the approach of the holy month of Ramadan.

Qatar launches fast-track visa approval system

The new electronic method is aimed at serving new and existing entities in Qatar to better cement their company establishments and expand their activities

Our Qatar Correspondent

QATAR'S Ministry of Labour (MoL) has announced the launch of a fast-track electronic service for new labour recruitment requests.

The time taken to obtain a visa approval to bring workers from overseas to Qatar is conveniently shortened to minutes to help companies speed up recruitment and deployment of foreign workers.

The process entails that upon the arrival of expatriates to Qatar, their employer will arrange for a temporary visa, which is then converted to a Work Residency Permit - a process that typically takes 2-4 weeks and sometimes longer. MoL noted that "only companies that adhere to the provisions of the Labour Law can benefit from the new service."

This falls in line with the ministry's efforts to "develop the recruitment request procedures for the private sector, and to upgrade the smart electronic services in the labour sector."

This new electronic method is aimed at serving new and existing entities in Qatar to better cement their company establishments and expand their activities, said a press statement.

The drive behind this service is in line with MoL's endeavours to "develop procedures for requesting the recruitment of labour for the private sector, its policy to develop smart electronic services, improve the system of electronic services in the labour sector, and contribute to facilitating and speeding up the completion of services provided to its clients."

New companies are directed to submit a full-detailed application with information on the requested labour, in compliance with the requirements of the establishment of the company.

According to the MoL, a smart card (QID) is an essential element when applying for the approval of new labour requests. This is to verify the identity of the establishment and its relevant persons, as the employer will have to access the national authentication system.

Other requirements include providing contact information, an explanation justifying the request for labourers, and a description of the specific workers needed for the company.

The number of workers needed for the establishment whilst simultaneously providing the company's criteria to justify the requested number is also crucial for the online process.

These requirements apply to both newly-established companies as well as existing ones. Applications can be made through the government's e-portal 'Hukoomi'.

Technical textiles exports should touch $10 bn in 3 years: Goyal

AAT News Service

TIME has come to target five-fold increase in export of technical textiles from existing $2 billion level to $10 billion in three years. The Central government will support production-linked incentives (PLIs) for textile sector in states supporting development and offering affordable infrastructure for textile manufacturing like cheap land and power, said Piyush Goyal, Union Minister for Textiles.

Speaking to representatives of Indian Technical Textile Association (ITTA), in New Delhi, the minister said "we should align with best standards in textile manufacturing. There should be no difference in quality of textile meant for international and domestic consumers. Public-private participation should be in use of government funds in research & development in technical textiles".

The growth of technical textiles in India has gained momentum in past five years, currently growing at 8 per cent per annum. The aim is to hasten this growth to 15-20 per cent range in next five years. Current world market is $250 billion (₹ 18 lakh crore) and India's share in it is $19 billion. India is an aspiring player with $40-billion size in this market (8 per cent share).

"In addition to the growth in statistical terms, we will direct the growth towards high technology and indigenously-innovated products. With these objectives in mind, the government has launched National Technical Textiles Mission in February 2020, with a view to make India a self-reliant, vibrant, and export-oriented economy in the world.

"Our aim is to transform India into a major player in innovations, technology development, applications in key areas (agriculture, roads and railways, water resources, hygiene and healthcare, personal protection) with emphasis on higher education and skilled workforce," said Mr Goyal.

In January 2019, for the first time in India, 207 HSN (Harmonised System of Nomenclature) codes were issued for technical textiles. This system has been introduced for the systematic classification of goods all over the world. HSN code is a six-digit uniform code that classifies 5,000+ products and is accepted worldwide.

In less than two years' time, India has become a net exporter in technical textiles. Trade balance, which used to be negative in 2019-20 has turned positive with ₹ 1,767 crore in 2020-21. During 2020-21, the country's major share of exports is in PPEs, N-95 and surgical masks, fabric for PPEs and masks.

Talking about the efforts made by the government to promote technical textiles, the minister informed that 92 items have been made mandatory for use by government organisations covering agriculture/horticulture, highways, railways, water resources, and medical applications. The Bureau of Indian Standards has issued Indian standards for 377 items and nearly 100 are in pipeline. Skill Development in Technical Textiles commenced with introduction of six new courses and another new 20 courses are under preparation, he said.

Technical textiles are textiles, which are engineered to give desired output suitable for specific applications. The basic raw material are natural fibres like jute, silk and cotton. But, majority of the applications use man-made fibres - polymers (aramid, nylon), carbon, glass, and metals. "Technical textiles are the technology of future. This is going to be the next technological revolution entirely changing the way we live and think."

Based on their area of applications, technical textiles segment is divided into 12 sub-segments. India has a major presence in packaging technical (packtech) textiles - 38 per cent; geotechnical (geotech) textiles

NITI Aayog pact with UN World Food Programme

AAT News Service

RECOGNISING the importance of millets, the Central government observed 2018 as a year of millets to encourage and promote the millet production. Leading this initiative further, the government spearheaded the United Nations General Assembly resolution for declaring 2023 as International Year of Millets.

Numerous steps have been taken to promote millets, including establishment of Centre of Excellence, integration of nutrients in National Food Security Act and establishment of Millet Mission in multiple states. Despite this, various challenges in terms of production, distribution and adaptability among consumers remain.

Under the distribution system, the country will focus on providing a more diversified food basket, including coarse grains and millets to improve the nutritional status of preschool children and women of reproductive age. To identify and address these challenges in a systematic and effective manner, NITI Aayog signed a Statement of Intent (Sol) with UN World Food Programme (WFP).

The partnership focusses on mainstreaming of millets and supporting India in taking lead globally in knowledge exchange using the opportunity of 2023 as an International Year of Millets.

Further, the partnership will aim at building resilient livelihoods for small-holder farmers and adaptation capacities to climate change and transforming food systems.

The Sol focusses on strategic and technical collaboration between NITI Aayog and WFP to strengthen climate-resilient agriculture for enhanced food and nutrition security in India.

The parties will be working on the joint development of a compendium of good practices around millets mainstreaming in priority states and development of a scaling-up strategy. It will provide technical support for scaling up of millets mainstreaming through intense engagement in select states with support from state governments, Indian Institute of Millets Research and other associated institutions.

The parties will jointly organise a national consultation for line ministries of the Central government, concerned departments of state governments, select academic institutions and organisations working in the field of millets mainstreaming.

The parties will support in leveraging of India's expertise to benefit other developing countries for millets mainstreaming by creation of knowledge management platforms and facilitation of knowledge exchange.

The outcome of this partnership will be achieved in four phases - Phase I: Development of a best practice compendium around millet mainstreaming and a scale-up strategy; Phase II: Support scale-up of millet mainstreaming through knowledge sharing and intense engagement with select states; Phase III: Leverage India's expertise to support developing countries for millet mainstreaming; and Phase IV: Working on building capacities for climate resilient and adaptive livelihood practices.

ONE of the key messages that we always communicate with whoever cares to listen, especially youngsters, is the benefits of reading in one's life. Francis Bacon, the great philosopher and essayist who lived in England, in his essay on reading said, "reading maketh a full man".

Unfortunately, today, the fan club of reading is dwindling in size and much of their reading is limited to reading posts on WhatsApp, Facebook, Instagram and the like. That explains the fall in standards of social discourse in today's times. There are plenty of reasons why reading is a beneficial practice. Here we share some of them.

Reading helps you discover yourself

Every good book opens up new dimensions of thoughts for the reader. When you read a book, you somehow try to connect the events, emotions, experiences, and characters in the books with yourself. This not only keeps you engrossed in the book, but also makes you realise how you would feel and react to those situations that have not yet occurred in your life. It helps you broaden your dimensions of likes and dislikes.

Reading expands the mind

For starters, reading helps expand the mind and give us more ideas. Reading has been proven to keep our minds young, healthy and sharp, with studies showing that reading can even help prevent Alzheimer's disease. Reading also develops the imagination and allows us to dream and think in ways that we would have never been able to before.

Reading can earn respect

If you are an avid reader, you will naturally be more knowledgeable than the rest of the folk who read less. So when you are with friends and other people, allowing us to see a different view on the world, one outside of our own. Reading is a chance to live through the lives of others without stepping outside of our comfort zone or even travelling anywhere else. It's a chance to live another life without even leaving your home. It will transport our imagination to places other one of the many reasons why reading is important is that it makes for a great conversation starter. Reading provides you with a great deal of new information and can connect people from all over the world. Regardless of where two people may be from, if they've read the same book, it will always con-

Saying new words out loud helps you better recall them and pick them up, making these new words part of your own daily vocabulary. Those with a higher vocabulary are considered to be more intelligent and are often taken more seriously in a work setting, which can open up better ca-work, understanding, experiences, knowledge, and in many cases a lot of pain. But we as a reader get to read them in just weeks or days, thereby living years of experiences in considerably less time.

Reading improves emotional health

tions that ultimately help us grow emotionally.

A great source of motivation

There are moments in our life when we feel down and discouraged. We may lose our hope and interest in life and feel like giving up. In times like this, sometimes, all we need is a little motivation, a little push in the right direction. Reading a good inspirational book during such a period can change our way of thinking and give us hope and motivation. Books are no doubt a huge source of motivation. We can derive great inspiration from them and transform our lives positively.

Reading improves functioning of brain

To stay fit we all do exercise like yoga, running etc. Exercise keeps us healthy by making our muscles stronger. Similar to exercise for muscles, reading is a workout for our brains. It requires more neurobiological attention to decode the printed text and reach a meaningful comprehension of it. While trying to interpret the written words the brain is stimulated to focus, concentrate, and be intelligent. We push our minds to construct and imagine a meaningful narrative of the text. This gives us more time to think and look into the insights of a concept than any other medium of learning.

Strengthens writing skills

It is important to remember that all great writers have been great readers. Every author has a different writing style. When we read more books, we are introduced to new words and new ideas. Such fresh knowledge can improve your own writing skills and imagination.

Why reading is the need of the time

The culture of a society depends greatly on the reading habits of its members. This is a good enough reason to start reading people, you will be able to talk better and share your knowledge. Your conversations will automatically be strong in content rather than empty. So naturally people will respect you for your knowledge and ideas and they will be happy to be associated with you.

Reading gives greater perspective

Reading allows for a greater perspective on the world and on others. Reading can take us outside of our closed-off bubwe've never been before, and perhaps never even knew existed.

Reading is a great conversation starter

Not only is reading good for the soul and the mind, but annect these two people together. You never really know when a book that you read will come in handy in conversation. Perhaps it will be what will land you the job in an interview.

working sites.

Dubai has a system that licenses freelancers at their place of residence. The e-Trader licence enables start-ups to conduct business activities online and across social networking traders 'towards the right path' to enter the business world.

According to the BRL sector's report, 79 per cent of the e-Trader licences issued in 2021 were professional, and 21 per cent commercial. IT, ready-

The sector focusses on providing support to e-Trader licence holders by signing partnerships with government and private sectors, providing facilities for their business growth as well as opening new channels by enhancing co-operation with major sales outlets.

Dubai has been seeing a growing momentum of e-shopping, as the Emirate has become a platform for the largest e-commerce companies in the world.

"This is due to its flexible business and investment environment, government integration with the private sector and its logistical advantages, as well as strategic location that facilitates global trade," said BRL sector.

India, Australia to finalise interim trade pact soon

The agreement will help educational ties and tourism between the nations to flourish

AAT News Service

INDIA and Australia have announced reaching an understanding on the interim trade agreement and finalising it in the next 30 days. The India-Australia Comprehensive Economic Cooperation Agreement (CECA) is expected to be concluded in 12 months thereafter.

Addressing a joint press conference in New Delhi, the Union Minister for Commerce and Industry, Piyush Goyal said, the two nations are expected to sign the interim trade agreement in March 2022. The areas covered under the agreement will include goods, services, rules of origin, sanitary and phytosanitary measures, customs procedure, and legal and institutional issues.

Significant progress has been made in advancing free trade agreement between the two nations. India and Australia are linked by Indian Ocean, connected by history, shared inheritances and deeply interlinked destinies. The CECA will be a substantial opportunity for both of economies and a significant moment in the bilateral relationship, said Mr Goyal.

Both sides also agreed on the need for a balanced trade agreement that encourages expanded trade and investment flows for the benefit of the economies, and reflects a shared commitment to the rules-based international trading system. It also agreed to expeditiously resolve tax-related issues faced by Indian software firms in Australia. Quad has brought the four countries - US, India, Australia and Japan - closer and this had also enabled India and Australia to come closer to each other in economic relations as well, added Mr Goyal.

Addressing the press conference, Australian Minister for Trade, Tourism and Investment, Dan Tehan said, "we will be open to travellers from all over the world from February 21, 2022. As a result of the agreement, tourism flows between Australia and India will continue to grow and education relationship between the two nations will also flourish. We are looking at mutual recognition of qualifications in Australia so that students can now study in both nations."

"The interim agreement will be a significant milestone in relationship between our two countries. The warmth of the relationship between the two nations and the honesty and transparency with which the negotiations happened will certainly help build a very strong and robust economic ties," added Mr Tehan.

Rlys to provide world-class wrestling academy

AAT News Service

INDIAN Railways will facilitate a world-class wrestling academy at Kishanganj, in Delhi. The Railways' vision is to provide the best facilities to sportspersons in the country. The state-of-the-art wrestling academy costing approximate ₹ 30.76 crore, will be another feather in the cap of Railways.

This academy, exclusively for wrestling, will be the biggest in the country equipped with advance training facilities. It will provide opportunity to many budding wrestlers to become champions in times to come. Indian Railways has played a paramount role in promoting wrestling in the country and most of the elite wrestlers are from Railways.

Most of the medals won by Indian wrestlers in Olympics are from Indian Railways, ie Sushil Kumar (2008 and 2012); Sakshi Malik (2016); Ravi Kumar and Bajrang (2020).

In the recently-concluded Tokyo 2020 Summer Olympics, the performance of Indian Railways' sportspersons has been phenomenal. Out of seven medals won by India, three individual silver medals were won by Mirabai Chanu in weightlifting; two silver and bronze medals won each by Ravi Kumar and Bajrang, respectively in wrestling and two bronze medals were won by the Indian Hockey Men team.

Indian Railways is contributing in promotion of sports through Railway Sports Promotion Board in a big way.

Railways supported the sizable number of sportspersons by giving them job security with various incentives. As on date, more than 9,000 sportspersons are on roll in 29 game disciplines in the Railways. Sportspersons in Railways have brought laurels for the country in all mega sports events like Olympics, Asian Games, Commonwealth Games etc. They have been honoured with 27 Padma Shri Awards; 176 Arjuna Awards; 12 Dhyan Chand Awards; 14 Dronacharya Awards; and 9 Major Dhyan Chand Khel Ratna Awards for their outstanding sports achievements.
